On October 30, 2013, the Majority and Minority Leaders of both houses of Congress, members of the Churchill family, representatives of the United States and British governments, and others joined to dedicate a bust of Winston Churchill in the United States Capitol. Donated by The Churchill Centre at the invitation of the Speaker of the House of Representatives, it is a rare Estate casting of a historic bust of Churchill sculpted from life by renowned artist Oscar Nemon. The only two other such copies in existence are in the Churchill War Rooms in London and the Museum of the Great Patriotic War in Moscow. The ceremony can be viewed online at <http://www.speaker.gov/Live/>

The George Washington University and The Churchill Centre have established the National Churchill Library and Center at GWU. Housed in the Estelle and Melvin Gelman Library, this is the first major research facility in the nation's capital dedicated to the study of Winston Churchill. Through its collections, academic programs and exhibits, the Center will offer GWU students, faculty, researchers and the public the opportunity to examine the life and legacy of Churchill. The Churchill Centre has pledged $8 million in funding: Facilities—$2 million (estimated), Endowed Professorship of 20th Century British History—$2.5 million, Endowed Curatorship of the Library—$2.5 million, and Center and Collection and Programming Endowment—$1million. The National Churchill Library and Center will open in stages between 2013 and 2015.
