Dr. John H. Maurer is a professor and chairman of the Strategy and Policy Department, Naval War College, Newport, Rhode Island. He is a graduate of Yale University and holds an M.A.L.D. and a Ph.D. in international relations from the Fletcher School of Law and Diplomacy. Author of The Outbreak of the first World War, he has published books about military interventions in the developing world, naval arms control between the two world wars, and edited Churchill and Strategic dilemmas Before the World Wars. He is past executive editor of Orbis, a journal of world affairs, and served as a member of the Secretary of the Navy's advisory committee on naval history. In 2001, Professor Maurer received the U.S. Navy's Meritorious Civilian Service Award. His current research includes work on Winston Churchill and Great Britain's decline as a world power, and great power arms competitions.
